UHL - NEARLY A CENTURY OF POTTERY BUSINESS

As our convention time arrives, we thought a brief overview of some of the Uhl Pottery history would help members understand the significance of nearly a century of pottery business.

This information was found in the book "A Collectors Guide & History of Uhl Pottery" by F. Early & Jane A. McCurdy.

1846 August Uhl leaves family pottery business in Germany and moves to New York

1847 August Uhl moves to Louisville, Kentucky and works at a local pottery

1848 August Uhl relocates to Evansville, Indiana and starts working for Hart & Dean Pottery

1849 August at the age of 24 starts a partnership with Henry Henn at Evansville, Indiana

1850 Henry Henn sells his share of pottery business to Louis Daum

1854 Louis Daum purchases August Uhl's portion of pottery and starts a new company called Old City Pottery

1854 August Uhl and brother Louis Uhl start a stoneware and waterpipe company named A & L Uhl

1864 Uhl brothers purchase the land which they had their business (building was 20 x 50 feet)

1868 to 1873 Period of nation wide depression

1874 A & L Uhl pottery considered the largest and most successful pottery in Evansville area

1880 A & L Uhl purchase a six horsepower engine to furnish motive power at plant (employed 14 workers at this time)

1880 Search for better clay leads to Huntingburg, Indiana - land purchased and shaft sunk at "Stand Pipe Hill"

1887 August Uhl sells his share of pottery to brother Louis Uhl - new name of firm is Louis Uhl & Son (George Uhl)

1888 August Uhl and H. V. Benninghoff become partners in new pottery business called "Benninghoff, Uhl & Company" - white ware production started

1891 Benninghoff & Uhl pottery sold to group consisting of the Benninghoff and Gillette families - also a new member Charles Uhl becomes a partner (George Uhl's brother and Louis Uhl's son) - Company named Crown Pottery

1893 The Uhl Pottery Company was built on Crown Street close to the Crown Pottery location

1894 Uhl Pottery Company changes name to Indiana Pottery Company

1899 Uhl Pottery Works listed at same location as the Uhl Pottery Company and the Indiana Pottery Company in Evansville (George Uhl owner)

1899 Charles and Edgar Uhl both working at the Crown Pottery just down the street from Uhl Pottery (they were a brother to George Uhl)

1904 Charles Uhl purchases Uhl Pottery Works

1908 Uhl Pottery purchases 2 1/2 acres at Huntingburg, Indiana for new plant location

1909 Work on new pottery plant starts in August

1909 First kiln of production was made at the Huntingburg, Indiana location

1910 Edgar Uhl was president and the pottery was enjoying a successful period of growth

1925 Jane Uhl joins Uhl Pottery and expands production to the art pottery lines (Jane was Louis Uhl's sister)

1929 Uhl Pottery producing 1,250,000 pieces of pottery per year - Production list had over 500 different articles being made - Pottery going to every state in U.S. also Canada

1934 New Uhl Pottery Corporate office constructed at Huntingburg - relocation from Evansville begins

1935 New kiln designed and built to increase quality and production - Labor problems starting to occur

1940 United Brick and Clay Workers Union was authorized to act as agent for Uhl Pottery workers

1944 After six month strike the Uhl Pottery plant closes

1945 Vogue Pottery Company leases plant and they produce Uhl and Vogue products

1946 Russel Potteries Company of Paris, Tennessee purchases some of the Uhl molds

1947 Vogue pottery closes their Huntingburg plant

1948 Plant leased to Louisville Pottery - some Uhl molds used in production

1950 Louisville Pottery ceases operation of the Huntingburg plant

1951 Uhl Pottery plant for sale

1957 Uhl Pottery sold to Huntingburg Furniture Company

1959 Uhl Pottery Company dissolved

Convention Agenda - See Inside

Letter from the President

Greetings UHL Members:

Convention time, June 26 & 27, 1998, will soon be upon us. The board and I have all been working together planning for another "gala" event, to be enjoyed by one and all!

The 1998 commemorative is very nice; those of us who have seen it are most pleased with its color and design. You will recall that The Board agreed that all commemoratives will be mailed for this year. On June 1, that is the date of shipment for all commemoratives, so watch your mail.

The special "1998" pieces will again be placed in the auction on Friday evening. The special pieces always incur a great interest and brings about lots of bidding pleasure, so again this year I am sure.

For your dining enjoyment, the dinner menu on Friday will be tastefully done. As you enjoy the meal, the friendliness of all club members is ignited by the sharing of stories and events all related to our interest and enjoyment in the wonderful world of "UHLING"!

Three positions on The Board need to be filled. For the annual membership meeting on Saturday morning we will need to elect/re-elect a Press Secretary, a Secretary-Treasurer, and a new Director. I am pleased to announce that the present Press Secretary and present Secretary-Treasurer are willing to serve again; so we will need only a new three year Director.

Best of Wishes, and we all look forward to see and visit with everyone at The 198 UHL Convention, June 26 & 27, I remain,

Sincerely Yours,

Joseph F. Erbacher, President
